

TAFT IS MIXING HIS WAR PAINT

Plan to Invade "The Enemy's Country" by Campaign Into West and Middle West

TO ATTACK BOB LA FOLLETTE

Plan to Assail Motives of the Progressives and Defend His Own Acts

"Swing Around the Circle" Leaves Beverly, Sept. 15, reaches Washington, Oct. 31. Has eliminated all southern points and will concentrate on middle and northwest and Pacific slope. Expects three tickets in the field. Will defend vetoes of tariff bills. Tariff, new reciprocity, conservation, currency reform and arbitration to be chief topics. Plans personally to attack in home states progressives who aided democrats in passing tariff legislation.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 28.—

President Taft is fighting for a second term and what he believes are the "hereditary policies" of his party. Today at Beverly a policy of "no visitors wanted" went into effect and it was given out that the president was going to rest for two weeks. His rest, however, will consist of mixing the war paint preparatory to carrying the struggle "into the enemy's country," in the middle and northwest. For the first time since he was nominated at Chicago, Taft is in a warlike mood. When he threw the gauge of battle down to the republican progressives and democrats in his speech of Saturday, it was preliminary to Lydette and shrapnel in a "swing around the circle" to be begun on September 15. From then until Oct. 31 Taft will be lining up his own followers for the struggle of next year and doing his best to draw away the support the La Follette-Bourne organization now enjoys.

West is Debatable Ground

As evidence of his warlike intentions, it is admitted that the proposed visit to Tennessee planned long ago, has been abandoned. The time allotted to it will be spent in Michigan, where a progressive movement to capture the delegates to the next republican national convention has been launched. The Atlantic coast states and New England as well as the south are safe for Taft, the president and his advisors privately believe. He will have their delegates and the regular organization in those states in control, but the middle west and Pacific coast are debatable ground today, not alone for delegates but for the vote in November of next year. Some of the states have the direct primary plan developed to such an extent that the delegation to the national conventions will be selected by the voters. Therefore Taft feels that it behooves him personally to explain his views to these voters.

Much will be heard from the president on this great trip about the "unnatural alliance" between the democrats and the insurgents in congress. Taft will personally assail the motives of Senator La Follette and his aides in the senate and he will also defend his veto of the tariff reduction bills.

Will Explain Vetoes

The tariff board and scientific revision will be his text before the people of the west. The bills he vetoed, he will explain, were defective, hastily prepared as "tariff for politics only." He will assert that every revision made scientifically under the recommendation of the tariff board will be approved by him.

Reciprocity will be explained along familiar lines and the farmers will be told that the working out of the plan will show them that with increased markets they can make more instead of less money. In the northwest Taft will discuss Alaska at great length. He will try to spike the guns of the progressives on this subject by declaring he is doing everything he can to safeguard the resources of the territory and will bitterly assail congress for its failure to enact adequate laws for the development of the resources of the north.

After Big Audiences

The itinerary of the coming trip has been arranged with an eye to big audiences. Starting at Syracuse, N. Y., on Sept. 16, he will jump immediately to Erie, Pa., where he will be the guest of the board of trade. He

INSANE FRIGHT COSTS 26 LIVES

Cry of Fire at Picture Show Causes Terrible Tragedy in Canonsburg, Pennsylvania

PILED UP IN SHRIEKING HEAP

Rewards Offered for Arrest of Person Who Raised Alarm; Town Is in Mourning

CANONSBURG, Pa., Aug. 28.—Stunned by the tragedy of Saturday night when twenty-six lives were trampled out in the Morgan opera house, Canonsburg today is preparing to bury her dead. There was no fire. There was not even any smoke. There was no reason whatever for alarm. There was only the blind unreasoning fear of a panic stricken mob, which carried before it and in it babes in arms, little children, strong men and frightened women and piled them in a writhing, twisted heap on top of those who stood below.

Rewards have been offered for the arrest and conviction of the person who cried "fire" in the opera house. The police fear that if he is caught he will be dealt with violently, as threats are heard on all sides. "We do not know who the person is who called 'fire' in the theater," said Chief of Police Samuel Swan today. "We heard it was a young foreign boy in the gallery and that he did it in a joking spirit when the film broke, but we cannot verify this."

To prove the film did not burn, two hours after the accident the reel of films of "A Little Child Shall Lead Them," which started the excitement, was shown to the police and a group of newspaper men. The operator got another film, which was to be shown, until he had an opportunity to repair the film. The picture, as well as all the three reels of films, are in the possession of the police. They have been sealed and will be turned over to the coroner. Grieved by its great loss, the town will go into mourning for the whole of this week. Gaiety of every form will be banished from the life of the town. The baseball games in the church league have been declared off for the remainder of the season.

SEATTLE EDITORS ARE UNDER ARREST

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 28.—The two editors of the Seattle Star and seven other men arrested Saturday on federal warrants charging conspiracy to obstruct the ends of justice will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Totten, Wednesday morning.

Councilman Erickson, who, with Deputy Sheriff Kelly and Mohr refused to give bail Saturday and went to jail today announced that he would furnish bail. Kelly and Mohr are considering similar action. Commissioner Totten said the cases probably would not be tried for seven or eight months when the federal judges of this circuit convene.

United States Judge Hanford, whose injunctions in connection with the street car fight in the Rainier Valley, brought on the demonstrations which caused the warrants, refuses to comment on the case.

ROADS TO HOLD OUT

KRUTTSCHNITT SAYS FEDERATION OF ALL EMPLOYES WOULD GIVE UNIONS ABSOLUTE CONTROL

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 28.—"We concede that unionism has come to stay and we are ready to meet union men as such. But railway officers are quasi-public officers and our duty to the public compels us to take a firm stand in these matters."

This statement made on his arrival here by Julius Kruttschnitt, vice-president of the Harriman lines regarding the demands of the Harriman shopmen has created a sensation in labor circles today. Leaders of the system federation movement here believe that the statement precludes any possibility of the presidents of the crafts involved in the trouble averting a general shopmen's strike when they confer with Kruttschnitt later this week.

The proposed federation of all the railroad craftsmen, if consummated, would place the unions in absolute control of all the railway business of the country and this our duty to the public would prevent.

WHERE HUNDREDS MIGHT HAVE BEEN KILLED

First Picture of the Collapsed Grandstand at the Elgin Automobile Races. ELGIN, Ill.—That hundreds were not killed in the grandstand accident at the Elgin races is almost past comprehension. Nearly two thousand people were in the stand and the riotous scenes which followed in other nearby seats was fully as dangerous as the accident itself.

AERO CLUB FLIGHT MAY PASS HERE

Proposed Trip from St. Louis Would Pass Over La Crosse on Way to St. Paul

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28.—Officials of the Aero club of St. Louis, who have charge of preliminary arrangements for the proposed trans-Mississippi hydroplane flight of 1,500 miles by an aviator of national reputation, announced today they were arranging a motorboat patrol of the entire course extending either from St. Paul to Vicksburg, Miss., or from Dubuque, Iowa, to New Orleans. By a scheme of relays, the aviator, whose identity has not been revealed, will be in constant touch with a fast boat on the river where tentative plans also include the attempting of wireless telegraph experiments designed to test the practicability of the wireless for aeroplanes.

A flight along either course would eclipse the recent world's record for cross country flying established by Harry N. Atwood.

Concerning the above dispatch, W. V. Kidder, secretary of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association, today declared that so far as he knew the Aero club had not yet made arrangement for escorts from the various towns with the M. V. P. B. A.

He said that the association would probably lend its support to the affair. In regard to the two routes chosen, Mr. Kidder claimed that the one from St. Paul to Vicksburg would be the better of the two, inasmuch as there was a larger and more interested population on the upper river, and that below St. Louis it would be nearly impossible for the association to get enough boats with respectable speed to act as escort for the aviator.

ENGLAND PLANS TO GOBBLE UP EGYPT

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Formal annexation of Egypt by Great Britain is believed in diplomatic circles to be imminent and certain. It is said today that Britain will take this step upon the slightest pretext and that Germany is already laying plans to block the move. In the same diplomatic circles it is said that Germany has plunged herself into the Moroccan situation, partially for the purpose of embarrassing England's plan on the Nile. The appointment of Lord Kitchener as general in Egypt is expected to pave the way for England's scheme. The khedive, Abbas Hilmi, has warned the people against Kitchener and England, and it has been decided that he must go.

FUNDS COME IN FOR FREE BRIDGE

Although $2,200 must still be raised before the necessary $10,000 will have been secured for making the wagon bridge free and building a good road to La Crescent, the committees in charge of the subscriptions here are confident that they can get the entire amount by September 1. Reports from Minnesota indicate that the residents there are coming along nicely with their $10,000 and no trouble is anticipated in regard to the raising of the amount. Together with the aid they will get they will have more than enough which they were to get, so there is no worry about that fund.

LEE ADMITS MURDERS

CONFESSES THAT HE KILLED FATHER, MOTHER AND BROTHER AND SETTING HOUSE AFIRE

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Aug. 28.—William Lee, confessed slayer of his father, mother and brother at Booneville, Ind., is safe in the state penitentiary today, having been brought here following his confession in Evansville owing to fear of mob violence, but the prisoner remains firm in his refusal to send any message to his sweetheart, Mina Taylor, who has repudiated him. "Don't you want to send a message to your sweetheart?" asked Major D. C. Peyton, head of the reformatory. "Oh, I guess not. I don't know of anything I want to say to her," replied Lee.

Lee has given another signed confession to Major Peyton in which he declares in addition to his story of killing his parents and brother and then setting the house afire, how brutal his father had always been to him and how his father had whipped him until blood was drawn to his back when he was only twelve years old.

PLAN A HUGE FUNERAL

AUTOMOBILE PROCESSION TO FOLLOW ILL FATED ELGIN RACE DRIVER TO THE GRAVE

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—There will be no banquet tonight of the Chicago Motor club to celebrate the Elgin road meet. Instead the club members will take part in an automobile funeral Tuesday, when Dave Buck, driver of the ill-fated Pope-Hartford car, is laid to rest.

The body of Samuel Jacobs, his mechanic, killed at the same time, has been sent to Cincinnati. His wife, from whom he had been separated, asked that she be permitted to bury him, and her request was granted. It is said the Buck funeral will be one of the most largely attended ever held in Chicago. It will be entirely a motor funeral from a motor hearse to motors for the mourners. All of the persons injured when the flimsy grandstand collapsed Saturday are said to be resting easily and will recover. Many damage suits are expected.

MAKES TRIP AROUND WORLD IN 40 DAYS

PARIS, Aug. 28.—Andre Jaeger-Schmidt, completed his round the world dash in the office of Excelsior, the newspaper he represents at two minutes 19 2-5 second after 9 o'clock in the morning, setting a record for globe circling of 39 days 19 hours 43 minutes 37 4-5 seconds. He landed from the liner Olympic at Cherbourg at 11:15 Friday night; was taken ashore in a speedy motorboat and dashed for a waiting automobile in which he made the final lap. He started July 17, at 1:18 p. m. Jaeger-Schmidt had agreed to finish the journey within forty days. Until his arrival at Vancouver, B. C., he was four days ahead of his schedule.

FINANCIER'S SON COMMITS SUICIDE

Standard Oil Official's Act, Following Quarrel with Wife, Ahrows Wall Street in Panic

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The financial district was thrown into a panic shortly before noon today when Arthur Veit, the 22 year old son of R. C. Veit, millionaire head of the lighterage department of the Standard Oil company, shot and killed himself on the street in front of the Produce Exchange building. Hundreds of people were passing and for a time the report was generally credited that an attempt had been made to kill a big financier.

Young Veit worked in the foreign department of the Standard Oil company. He was married and it was reported to the police of the Old Slip station that the shooting followed a quarrel with his wife. Friends of the suicide said that he was very despondent today and although they had tried vainly to cheer him up, he left his desk late in the morning and walked down New street to Beaver, where he stood for a minute as though trying to make up his mind.

Suddenly he drew a revolver and pressing it tightly against his left breast, fired a shot into his heart. He dropped dead in his tracks.

CUMMINS COMES OUT FOR LA FOLLETTE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Great interest was manifested among politicians here this afternoon when copies of an Iowa newspaper were received containing an interview with Senator Cummins (Rep., Iowa) announcing that he would support La Follette for president.

MACHINE IS BROKEN

PROGRESSIVES WIN GREAT VICTORY IN PENNSYLVANIA BY BREAK OF SENATOR PENROSE

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 28.—The action of United States Senator Penrose who has inherited the mantle of the late Senator Quay as the leader of the Pennsylvania republican machine in breaking with the machine leaders in this city has astounded the rank and file of the party. It is admitted that it means that the fight of the progressives against the "old guard" in the state and city at last seems certain to be crowned with success and also means that the reform element has won a struggle lasting over ten years.

THOMPSON WITNESS GRANDSTAND SMASH

District Attorney James Thompson returned this morning from an automobile tour through Wisconsin, to Chicago and the Elgin races, which lasted one week. Mr. Thompson went from here to Madison and then to his old home near there. From there he motored to Milwaukee and Chicago. He also went to the Elgin auto races and was there Saturday when the monster grandstand crashed down with 2,000 people in the debris. Mr. Thompson was accompanied on the trip by Basil Peterson.

GURLEW CREW QUILTS SEINING

Immediately Following the Washington Order Men Are Sent Home and Work Ceases

NO MINNOWS IN SLOUGHS

When Ordered to Return All to River Seiners Can Find No More "Landlocked"

The steamer Curlew has discharged its minnow seining crews, and ceased operations for the season. Five members of the force, residents of La Crosse, arrived in this city Sunday. This information was conveyed to The Tribune by a gentleman who had occasion to call up Mr. James Squire, 1446 Kane street, a member of one of the crews, whom he supposed to be at the Homer hatchery. Answering the phone Superintendent C. M. Brown is quoted as having said: "Mr. Squire is in La Crosse. No he isn't out fishing, we've quit that. We stopped a week ago last Friday. There's no fish in the sloughs so there's no use continuing it. No, I don't think we'll do anything more until next season."

Last Friday Congressman Esch advised The Tribune that Superintendent Bowers of the bureau of fisheries, Washington, D. C., had instructed Superintendent Brown of the Homer station that for the remainder of the year 1911 all fish seined in land-locked sloughs adjacent to the Mississippi be put back in the river instead of shipping them to other points.

Superintendent Brown's reply to this is to suspend operation entirely on the ground that "there are no fish in the sloughs."

It is a significant circumstance that so long as they were permitted to send the bass away the seiners could find minnows in the land-locked sloughs, but that immediately upon being ordered to put them back in the river, the sloughs became devoid of minnows.

There are sportsmen who will suspect that the answer is that there have been no minnows in the sloughs for the past three years, and that the officers of the Curlew had not the nerve to seine minnows from the Mississippi only to put them back again in the Mississippi.

In his statement quoted above Superintendent Brown is represented as having said that the crew quit fishing one week ago Friday. He probably meant last Friday, August 26, as on Wednesday, August 23, scouts sent out by The Tribune saw the Curlew crews working in the river between Trempealeau and Wabasha.

MAKE WELL TESTS THIS AFTERNOON

Two engineers, W. D. Pierce and Mr. Miller, sent by the railroad commission, arrived in the city today to assist A. T. Maltby in testing the wells sunk in the marsh. All three men were taken out to the marsh this morning and spent the entire forenoon in looking over the wells.

This afternoon water is to be taken from the wells so that samples can be sent to the university, where it will be tested. These tests will be thorough in every respect.

Now that the wells have been sunk, thorough tests of their efficiency are to be begun. An invitation was issued to all aldermen who desired to come out to the marsh this afternoon to do so, so that they might witness the work being done themselves. Two o'clock was the time set for assembling, so that there would be enough time for completing the tests.

ORIENTAL FLYER KILLS MORMON COULEE FARMER

Joseph Ober and Horse Victims in Awful Accident on "Q" Crossing Today

BODY IS BADLY MUTILATED

Train Crew Finds It Nearly 100 Feet from Scene of Accident; Wagon Is Kindling Wood

LA CROSSE MAN AT THROTTLE

James O'Brien and A. R. Batcheller in Charge of Engine; Coroner Investigating

Joseph Ober, aged 55, Mormon Coulee farmer, and his horse were instantly killed at 1 o'clock this afternoon when Great Northern passenger train No. 52, the Oriental Limited, probably traveling at a high rate of speed in an effort to make up time, crashed into his frail farmer's rig at the Mormon Coulee crossing, south of the city.

Up to a late hour this afternoon eye witnesses to the accident had disappeared but according to the story of people within a short distance of the crossing Ober was driving slow and started across the Burlington tracks after the passenger had whistled.

Engineer James O'Brien, 711 Cass street, La Crosse, was at the throttle and applied the air but the heavy passenger could not be brought to a stop in time to prevent the catastrophe. The train was brought to a standstill several rods from the crossing and was backed to the scene of the accident.

Ober's badly mutilated body was picked up nearly one hundred feet from the crossing and carried to his home. The horse had been thrown to one side. The wagon was smashed to kindling wood.

Ober owns a farm about a quarter of a mile south of the Burlington tracks and was on his way to his home when the accident occurred.

The Oriental Limited is due at La Crosse at 12:23 p. m. and was thirty minutes late. Engineer O'Brien and fireman, A. R. Batcheller, 1526 Kane street, took the train here.

Engineer O'Brien was in the collision at East Dubuque three years ago when the Illinois Central and the Burlington passengers collided, killing the fireman on O'Brien's engine.

Ober is survived by a wife and three children. The children are George and Joe and Thillie.

At the Burlington offices this afternoon details of the accident had not been gathered but it was announced that the possibility of a person not seeing the train was slight as a clear view of the track is to be had either way.

Coroner Leonard Kleeber is investigating the accident.

HACK CONFIDENT OF WINNING MATCH

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Three easy workouts at the most will be all that George Hackenschmidt will allow himself before his struggle with Frank Gotch on Labor Day. He said today that he expects to taper off and that heavy training is over. It was unlikely that he will do more today than he did yesterday when he took a walk along the beach. Hack is in a remarkably good humor these days but all that is necessary to start the fireworks is to say something about the tricks of the Humboldt farmer. The "Lion" becomes furious when he hears it intimated that Gotch will out-think him.

GOTCH WILL WORK ON MAT THIS WEEK

HUMBOLDT, Iowa, Aug. 28.—After yesterday's day of rest, Frank Gotch was ready for all of the work that could be fed to him today. This does not mean that he will work harder the last week of training than he has for the past few weeks. It does mean, however, that mat work will be pushed a little harder and that many new holds will be tried out in secret. An abundance of wrestling will be the program up until next Saturday.

GOLF CUP GOES TO MADISON CLUB

La Crosse Golfers Lose Second Match of the Season to Capital City

MADISON HAS A BIG LEAD

Battle Ends in Defeat of La Crosse by Score of 42 Up and Gives 31 Points Lead

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 28.—The La Crosse golfers were defeated 42 up in one of the most one-sided contests ever witnessed on the local links, Saturday afternoon when the Madison Golf club again took the lead in the tournament for the Brittingham-Hixon cup which they will hold this year.

In the first contest of the season, held at La Crosse a week previous to the Madison match, the capital city golfers were defeated by 29 which gave them a lead of 11 points for the cup, the Madison club having held the lead since last year. However Saturday's victory again places the local club in the lead with thirty-one points to spare.

F. A. Holbrook defeated W. A. Tracy 3 up and Andrew Lees won from A. B. Morris 3 up. These were the only two members of the La Crosse club to score.

Another and the third national victory for FLANDERS "20" within a month. This time a clean sweep in America's hill climbing classic. The THREE speed FLANDERS "20" won event in her class Saturday at Worcester, Mass. climbing Dead Horse Hill in 1 minute 18.85 seconds, breaking all previous records for her class by 46 seconds, and defeating second car in her class by 37 seconds. She also beat records made by the following high powered and higher priced cars in other classes. Velie Buick Cole, Hudson, Firestone, Oakland, Cameron, Krit and Empire.

FLANDERS "20" was the lowest priced car in the contest. Dead Horse Hill is one mile long with a rise of over 400 feet to the mile. Newspaper accounts say course was slow because of bad surface and one very bad spot near finish line.

FLANDERS time better than time made in 1909 by any car less than three times her price. And faster than time made last year by any car but one of three times her size and price. She averaged a little over 46 miles an hour up to the eight per cent grade. Strictly stock chassis. Event run under A.A.A. rules and supervision. FLANDERS "20" was sensation of the sixty and seventy horse power cars barely beating her phenomenal performance.

Sending you photograph of WITT in victorious FLANDERS on the hill. She has now only to win the three hundred mile Savanna Road Race to prove her invincibility in speed as she proved her reliability in the Little Glidden; her staying powers in Minneapolis, to Helena Montana reliability run, and her hill climbing qualities on Dead Horse Hill. Watch the little wonder at Savanna.

DIAMOND DUST

All that was lacking to round into perfection the wonderful baseball career of Big Ed Walsh has been attained. He held the Boston Red Sox hitless through nine hard fought innings. One man only reached first base to mar the beauty of the occasion. Engle cruelly waited for four bad ones. Outfielder Henrickson and Speaker collided in a mad dash for a high fly. Both were badly injured. Henrickson so severely that he will be out of the game for the balance of the season. Before the second largest crowd in Detroit's baseball history, Summers outpitched Bender and the Tigers won the first of their games with the world's champion Athletics. The Tigertown series probably will decide upon who will rest the laurels of victory in the American league this season. Our little wager on the Athletics remains unhedged. Ty Cobb proved that it was bad for the opposing team for him to come to bat. Rather than let him hit the ball, Bender walked him whereupon Georgia's pride ambled across the plate. He got two hits. Hitting the great Nelson's curves at opportune moments, the Yankees won the first game of the series with the Browns by 4 to 2. Van Gregg held the senators to four hits, the Naps winning by 1 to 0. It was the brilliant fielding of Milan and McBride that kept Cleveland's score down to the bottom notch. La Jole was the only player in the Senators-Nap game to get more than one hit. The great Larry annexed three during the mix-up. The world's champion Athletics have a four and a half game lead over the Tigers.

THE WATER ROUTE VALUE

S. A. Thompson, field secretary of the National Rivers and Harbors
Congress, in the following brief article calls attention to an illustration of the value of water routes in governing the transportation problem and affecting the growth of industry:
"Recent consular reports reveal a startling contrast in the present conditions and the future prospects of two of the chief manufacturing cities of England. They lie but 70 miles apart, but the industries of the one are steadily expanding while those of the other are falling into decay.
"No one knows how long ago the smelting of ores and workings of metals began at Birmingham, but years before our Declaration of independence was signed her metal
work was known throughout the world. Today Birmingham has a population of more than 600,000,
and it would be natural to conclude that her industrial position had been established beyond the possibility of overthrow.
"On the contrary there is a serious crisis in the heavy branches of the iron and steel trade of Birmingham and the surrounding country. A number of great iron plants have moved to the seaboard, others are preparing to follow, and still others have failed. One such property was recently put up at auction. The plant was as complete as any in the country, but the highest bid received
was less than one-third the estimated value. Naturally the people of Birmingham are looking for the cause and seeking for a remedy. The iron and steel industry is the very foundation of their prosperity, and the loss of the foundation always means the fall of the superstructure.
"Conditions are far different in Manchester, although it is not all sunshine even there. Most of the cotton mills had to run on short time last year, but that was due solely to the shortage in the cotton crop of the world. The significant thing is the steady increase in the number and variety of new industries. On one great tract of land,

called the Trafford Park estate, no
less than 73 firms or corporations have secured sites in recent years for the establishment of industries,
many of them of immense size. Similar developments are taking place on other tracts of land in and around Manchester. Most significant of all, especially to Birmingham, is the purchase of 90 acres of ground on which the erection of a great iron
and steel works has already begun.
The addition of great industries
means growth in population, and when the pending annexation of the adjoining town of Salford has been carried out, Manchester will have a population of more than 1,000,000
souls.
"The disastrous conditions in Birmingham are due not to a general
depression in the iron and steel
trade, for that did not exist, but to high freight rates. Birmingham is only about 70 miles from Bristol
and 85 to 90 miles from Liverpool,
but it is 'not mileage but cost of transportation that constitutes the true commercial measure of distance.' Repeated efforts to secure a reduction of railway rates having failed, it is now recognized that the only real remedy lies in a radical improvement of the waterways leading to the seaboard. It has already been proposed that the towns interested shall advance $5,000,000,
without interest, to aid in the construction of a big canal.
"The history of Manchester shows that Birmingham could well afford to advance much more than that.
Thirty years ago the condition of Manchester was far worse than that of Birmingham today. The building of the Manchester ship canal was not undertaken as a diversion; it was a case of life or death, and Manchester chose to live. The total amount spent up to December 31, 1910, in the construction of the canal
and the creation of port facilities,
amounted to almost $82,000,
000, of which the city of Manchester
subscribed $25,000,000. Manchester, which up to seventeen years ago was an inland city, is now the fourth port in the United Kingdom, with a foreign commerce greater than that of any port in the United States
except New York City.
"What Birmingham will do is for Birmingham to say, but the moral of this Tale of Two Cities is not hard to see. More than natural resources, more than the combination of capital and skill in manufactures,
more than the prestige of centuries
of success, more than any other factor, more, sometimes, than all other factors combined, the cost of transportation determines the success or the failure, the prosperity
or the adversity, the growth or the decay of industries and cities.
"It is costly transportation that,
like a hidden cancer, is eating out
the industrial life of Birmingham; it is cheap transportation, that, like a mighty magnet, is drawing industries and population to Manchester;
and the cheapest of all transportation is water transportation."
In a personal letter to The Tribune Mr. Thompson adds:
"If a ship canal could restore life
to a dying city like Manchester,
what would a completely improved Mississippi river do in hastening the growth of La Crosse and the other cities along its banks? The engineers say that if they had ample funds the work on the Upper Mississippi river could be completed within five or six years.
"If it was good policy to issue
bonds so that the Panama canal
might be completed as soon as possible, why would it not be good policy
to authorize bonds so that the Mississippi river and the other waterways of the United States could be improved as soon as possible?
"That is the policy advocated by
the National Rivers and Harbors Congress. Unless that policy is adopted some of us will have been a long time dead before the great,
connected national system of improved waterways, which ought to be in existence today, will actually be completed and in use. And until our interior waterways are developed and brought into use we can never reap the fullest benefits
possible from the enormous expenditure upon the Panama canal."

Followed Advice
The beauty editor of the Holton Signal was asked by a girl who wasn't of much account around the house what she should do to make her hands white. The beauty editor answered with wasted sarcasm that the best thing the young woman
could do would be to soak her hands
in dishwater three times a day. It never touched her. She went home and gravely asked her mother to save the dishwater after she got through.—Kansas City Star.

The Danger of a Foreign Spouse
One of the most prominent college
professors took unto himself a wife
a very charming and highly cultur-ed German lady who is exquisitely particular about all small matters.
Several years ago, just after she had come to live in this country, she was ever on the qui vive for new forms of expression.
One night the professor came home worn out with the troubles of commencement. As he was dressing
to attend a very formal reception,
he remarked:
"I wish we weren't going to this shindig."
"Shindig?" repeated his wife;
"what is that?"
"It's the sort of thing we're going to tonight," answered her husband.

At the close of a very enjoyable
evening the professor heard his wife saying, "Oh, Mrs. B., I have so much enjoyed your shindig."—Harper's Weekly.

Tennyson's Bird Sounds
Perhaps the best word for the cry
of the cricket is that of Tennyson.
"Not a cricket chirp'd," he writes in
"In Memoriam." But Tennyson was always curiously exact in his vocal rendering of the songs of birds.
What could be truer to sound than
"the moan of doves in immemorial
elms?" Then too the linnets, the robin and the thrush "pipe," the woodpecker "laughs" and "mobs," the lark and the plover "whistle," the
jay "screeches," the parrot "screams"
the peacock "squalis," the blackbird
"warbles," while the ocean fowl
"shriek" and the eagle "yelps."—
London Daily Chronicle.

Not Permanent Enough Toothpicks, it appears, are sometimes difficult to obtain. Walter Seymour, in his "Ups and Downs of a Wandering Life," relates that "when a factory inspector at Birmingham,
I was talking to one of my colleagues
as to the lack of decent eating places
in England. He said that one day after luncheon he asked the young lady who attended on him for a tooth-pick, and she said, 'We don't keep them now. Father found that the gentlemen took them away with them.'"—London Chronicle.

"What did he do?" inquired Ma-

Emphatic
Japanese English is always good.
Frank Pixley, the librettist, is back from Japan and brought with him some Japanese English. As a sample, he quotes the sign of a dairyman:
"We sell the true milk of the really cow."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Change and Rest
"Hello, Bill," remarked a Market street salesman as he met a friend
yesterday in a lunch cafe, "where have you been? I haven't seen you for the last three weeks." "Well," replied the vacationist, wearily, "I'll tell you. I've been away. Went on the recommendation of my doctor.
Seemed to be all run down and wrong. The doc said I was nearly all in, had been working too hard. He advised me to go to the seashore for a change and a rest. I did, and here
I am. The boardwalk got the change and the hotels got all the rest." He looked tired, and his friend believed him.—Philadelphia Record.

"Then, in such case—"
"In such case any woman would hate a man! Stress may win some women, but deceit never did."
"I have not deceived you."
"Do you wish to do so now?"
"No. It's just the contrary.
Haven't I said you must go? But since you must go, and since I must pay, I'm willing, if you wish to pare my life to the very bone to the heart before you now—right
now."
She pondered for a moment. "Or course, I knew there was something. There, in that room—in that wardrobe—those were her garments—of another woman. Who?"
"Wait, now. Go slow, because I'm suffering. Listen. I'll not hear a word about your own life—I want no secret of you. I'm content. But I'm willing now, I say, to tell you
all about that—about those things."
"I didn't do that at first, but how could I? There wasn't any chance. Besides, when I saw you,
the rest of the world, the rest of my life, it was all, all wiped out of my mind, as though some drug had done it. You came, you were so sweet, my lack was so terrible, that I took you into my soul, a drug, a balm, an influence, a wonderful thing.
"Oh, I'm awake now! But I reckon maybe that doesn't mean
that I'm getting out of my dream,
but only into it, deeper yet. I was mad for you then. I could feel the blood stinging in my veins, for you.
Life is life after all, and we're made as we are. But later, now, beside that, on top of that, something else, do you think it's—do you suppose I'm capable of it, selfish as I am? Do you reckon it's false, just big, worthy, decent love,
better than anything in the world?
Is that—do you reckon, dear girl,
that that's why I'm able now to say good-by? I loved you once so much I could not let you go. Now I love so much I can not let you stay! I reckon this is love. I'm not ashamed to tell it. I'm not afraid to justify it. And I can't help it."
It was any sort of time, a moment, an hour, before there was spoken speech between them after that. At last they both heard her voice.
"Now, you begin to pay. I'm glad. I am glad."
"Then it is your revenge? Very well. You have it."
"No, no! You must not say that.
Believe me, I want you to feel how
—how much I admire—no, wait—
how much I admire any man who could show your courage. It's not revenge, it's not vanity—"
He waited, his soul in his eyes,
hoping for more than this; but she fell silent again.
"Then it is the end," he said.
He held up his fingers, scarred
to the bone.
"That's where I bruised my hands, when I clenched on the table, yonder. You wouldn't think it, maybe, but I love pictures. I've spent a lot of time looking for them
and at them. I remember one collection—many pictures of the martyrs, horrors in art, nightmares.
They wound his very bowels about a windlass, before his eyes, and at each turn—I could see it written in the picture—they asked him, did he yield at last, did he agree, did he consent. Then they wound again.
Here another man was on an iron chair, flames under him. Now and then they asked him, should they put out the flames and hear him
say he had foresworn his cause?
Again, there was a man whom they had shot full of arrows, one by one,
little by little, and they asked him,
now and then, if he foreswore his faith. But I knew he would not—I knew these had not.
"That's the way it is," he said
slowly. "That's what you're seeing
now. These scars on my fingers came cheap. I reckon they've got to run deeper, clean down into my heart. Yet you're saying that now
I begin to pay. Yes. When I pay,
I'm going to pay. And I'm not going to take my martyrdom for immediate sake of any crown, either.
There is none for me. I reckon I sinned too far against one of God's angels. I reckon it's maybe just lasting hell for me, and not a martyrdom with an end to it some time.
That's how I've got to pay. Now,
do you want me to tell you all the rest?"
She would not answer, and he resumed.
"Do you want me to tell what you've maybe heard, about this house? Do you want me to tell those garments those were that you saw? Do you want me to pay, that way?"
She went to him swiftly, put a hand on his arm. "No!" said she.
"What I want you to believe is that it's life makes us pay, that it's God
makes us pay."
"I want you to believe, too," she went on after a time, "that we need neither of us be cheap. I'm not going to ask you one thing, I'm not going to listen to one word. You must not speak. I must go. It's just because I must go that I shall not allow you to speak."

"Is my debt to you paid, then?"
His voice trembled.
"So far as it runs to me, it is paid."
"What remains?"
"Nothing but the debt of yourself to yourself. I'm going to look back to a strange chapter in my life—a life which has had some strange ones. I'm not going to be able to forget, of course, what you have said to me. A woman loves to be loved. When I go, I go; but I want to look back, now and then,
and see you still paying, and getting
richer with each act of courage,
when you pay, to yourself, not me."
"Ah! fanatic. Ah! visionary. Ah!
dreamer. And you?"
"That is the rest of the debt. Let the wheel turn if need be. Each of us has suffering. Mine own is for the faith, for the cause."
"For what faith? What cause do you mean?"
"The cause of the world," she answered vaguely. "The cause of humanity. Oh, the world's so big, and we're so very little. Life runs away so fast. So many suffer, in the world, so many want! Is it right for us, more fortunate, to take all, to eat in greed, to sleep in sloth, to be free from care, when there are thousands, all over the world, needing food, aid, sympathy, opportunity, the chance to grow?"
"Why," she went on, "I put out little plants, and I love them, always, because they're going to grow, they're going to live. I love it—that thought of life, of growth. Well, can I make you understand, that was what I felt over yonder, in that revolution, in mid-Europe. I felt it was just like seeing little plants
set out, to grow. Those poor people!
Those poor people! They're coming over here, to grow, here in America, in this great country out here, in this West. They'll grow, like plants extending, like grass multiplying, going out, edging westward,
all the time. Ah, thousands of them, millions yet to come, plants,
little human plants, with the right to live born with them. I don't so much mind about their creed. I don't so much mind about their race—
their color, even. But to see them grow—why, I suppose God up in His Heaven looks down and smiles
when He sees that. And we—who are here for a little time—who
who sometimes are given minds
and means to fall in tune with God's smile—why, when we grow
little and selfish, instead of getting
in tune with the wish of God—why,
we fail. Then, indeed, we do not pay—we repudiate our debt to ourselves."

NEW MEXICO WILL HOLD ELECTION SOON

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 28.
—New Mexico's first state election will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 7, if the plans of Governor Mills and the other republican officials are carried out.

Mills, National Committeeman Solomon Luna, Republican Chairman
Bursam and several other prominent party leaders announced that date had been tentatively arranged.
Governor Mills is expected to issue a formal proclamation in a few days.

The republican leaders are anxious to fulfill the conditions of the statehood bill as soon as possible
and elect state officials, congressmen and senators. It is expected that the coming session of congress will have an important bearing on the tariff and the republicans want their congressional delegation to have a hand in it.

LARGE CROWD TO ATTEND BIG FAIR

The Trempealeau County Fair,
which will be held at Galesville on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday,
August 29, 30 and 31, is making arrangements for one of the largest crowds in the history of the fair.
It is expected that many La Crosse
people will be in attendance during the three days of the fair. This year's fair will be the fifty-third annual fair of the Trempealeau County Agricultural society.

WON'T MARCH WITH GUARD

NEENAH, Wis., Aug. 28.—The

brother, Dr. P. J. Taugher, 345 First

J. Taugher, Fond du Lac, suddenly

Death was due to heart failure.

HEALTH TALK No. 5
Bread, the Staff of Life, is used universally. The kernel of Wheat contains all the elements necessary to feed the body in almost perfect proportions. Properly milled flour from fully matured Hard Spring Wheat gives the human body the most perfectly balanced ration known.
Bread made from flour that has been improperly
milled lacks some of the elements the body craves.
Impoverished food creates in the human organism
the same conditions that force people to use narcotics and stimulants. Is it fair to your family to give them bread of this kind? Would you think it conducive to their best health, to give them skimmed milk and tell them it was just as good as fresh rich milk?
It is the same way with flour.
If you want flour that contains all the nourishment
of the best wheat, flour that will produce strength, muscle and energy, buy MARVEL FLOUR.
You will be pleased to see how the children grow and how much better their health will be, when fed upon nourishing bread, made from MARVEL FLOUR.
MARVEL FLOUR is made from fully matured hard spring wheat. It is for sale by all first class grocers.

ENGINE SNATCHES PURSE

NEENAH, Wis., Aug. 28.—To have a big passenger locomotive, traveling
at a rate of fifty miles an hour,
snatch a large purse from her as it
whizzed past her, was the unique experience of Miss Anna Soby, a Neenah young woman. Miss Soby was walking along the street abstractedly
and did not notice a swiftly approaching Northwestern road passenger train until it was almost upon her. She jumped back just in time to save her life. Her arms were bruised by the pilot beam and the large pocketbook was snatched from her arm.

COMPLETE NEWS OF THE NORTH SIDE

JOHN D. DIDN'T ADVERTISE VISIT

Oil Magnate Sails Through North Side, but Reception Committee Wasn't "Hep"

Had any of the curious been standing in the north side yards of the Milwaukee road on last Thursday afternoon about three o'clock, when the special train bearing the president of the road, A. J. Earling, passed through, they might have observed a lean and hungry looking man with an obviously false wig staring from a window of the special.

He didn't look like anything remarkable, but the fact remains that this man with the "lean and hungry look" was none other than the alleged richest man in the world, Mr. John D. Rockefeller. Jawn D. was accompanied on the journey by his son, and several financiers from the east. They went with Mr. Earling to the Winnipeg country to spy out a route, it is said, for the Milwaukee road to tap the rich Canadian country.

Mr. Rockefeller failed to send advance notices of his coming to the press of the city, and therefore there was no reception committee or red fire to show how much we regard him. Even the north side boat owners failed to put in a petition asking for mercy in the price of gasoline. All was quietness and some of the railroaders in the yards are reported to have had the nerve to ask the porter of the special "who the funny gink with the neck like an oil can was?"

400 MANUFACTURERS PLAN EXHIBITIONS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 28.—(Special)—Preparations for the Industrial Exposition in the Milwaukee Auditorium are practically completed and exhibitors are now moving their displays into the booths.

The exposition will embrace the largest variety of Wisconsin made goods ever shown under one roof. More than 400 manufacturers have taken space and the number of different products to be displayed by them will mount close to 5,000.

The entire Auditorium will be used, the exhibits to be classified under four distinct groupings. The main arena will be entirely devoted to the mechanic arts. Juneau hall in the annex will contain the food products exhibits and the leather goods and wearing apparel will occupy Kilbourn Hall just north. The educational division, embracing the public school exhibit, trade school exhibit, and lectures on industrial subjects will be held in the two upper annex halls, Plankinton and Kilbourn and in Walker Hall downstairs.

One feature which will distinguish the Milwaukee Exposition from all others except the world's fairs is the fact that nearly three-fourths of the exhibits will be "live" ones showing the actual processes by which the goods displayed are manufactured from the raw materials.

All plants whose machinery is of a nature permitting its display in the Auditorium will show it in actual operation.

CHINESE PLAN TO MEET IN MADISON

Delegates From Seventeen Colleges Will Assemble for Big Conference Friday

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 28.—Delegates from seventeen colleges and universities, most of them in the middle west, will assemble in Madison Friday for the Chinese students' conference. Over 200 are expected. Four programs are planned for each day of an eight-day convocation. The tentative list of speakers includes the names of Rev. Jenkin Lloyd-Jones, Chicago; Prof. Stephen W. Gilman, University of Wisconsin; Dr. Martin Edwards of the Harvard medical school branch at Shanghai; the Chinese ambassador or secretary of legation from Washington; and William J. Calhoun, American ambassador to China, now on furlough in Chicago.

Athletic contests will occupy the oriental students each afternoon. A track meet between all the schools represented is a feature for Monday afternoon, Sept. 4. A soccer football game will be played Sept. 5 between teams from the Universities of Wisconsin and Illinois for a handsome cup. Soccer is a popular game in China. Tennis meets are also on the calendar. The finals will be played next Friday. The Wisconsin Chinese club offers a gold cup to the winner of the singles. The representatives of Wisconsin in the doubles are C. Y. Chin and K. T. Ho.

On Thursday there will be a baseball game between an all-conference team and one representing students who have studied at Honolulu. It will be followed by a target contest. A Chinese bazaar will be held by the Orientals on the Chadbourne hall lawn Wednesday afternoon, in charge of the Wisconsin club and the few Chinese girls who will be in attendance. Literary contests during the week include an oratorical contest, in which only Chinese orations may be used. Seventeen entries have already been made. Wisconsin offers a gold medal to the winner and Illinois a prize to the winner of second place. There will be an English oratorical contest and a debate. On Tuesday the students will give a Chinese entertainment at Lathrop hall, with Chinese music and "stunts," for the best of which Wisconsin will give prizes. A banquet will be held Thursday night.

Twelve Chinese coeds are expected to come. They will be entertained at the Alpha Xi Delta sorority house. The headquarters for the men and for all business meetings will be at Association hall.

Governor McGovern will give the address of welcome Monday and will throw open the executive mansion for a reception for the visiting Chinese students Tuesday evening.

NEW SEMINARY FOR DUBUQUE

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Aug. 28.—The Lutheran synod of Iowa has decided upon a new seminary for Dubuque, to displace the present building at Wartburg which has long been inadequate to meet the demands made upon it.

A committee is at present at work considering plans for the new structure, which will be a magnificent one. The old seminary building is undergoing repairs at present, as it will have to be made to serve for at least the coming semester. On account of these repairs the school year will not begin until September 20.

PLAYING EASY WITH ONE HAND

Trempealeau County Youth
Protege of Paderewski,
Says It Is Very Simple

TO RETURN TO NEW YORK

'Made Good' Before Large Audience and Will Complete His Studies in that City

"Trouble? No. It's the simplest thing in the world to play with one hand. Why, I believe that I could safely advise every would-be prominent pianist to lop off a hand before learning the piano. It's much simpler," said Donald A. X. Jonson, the one armed prodigy of the piano of Centerville, Trempealeau county, today, to a representative of The Tribune, in answer to a question as to whether the possession of one arm hampered him in his music.

Mr. Jonson is a protege of Paderewski, having played for him in La Crosse, March 17, 1909. Paderewski was delighted with the young man's playing, and sent him to New York, where for the last two years he has been studying under the famous Prof. Sigismund Stojowski. In the early part of October he will leave for New York to take up his third and final year of study.

In May of this year Jonson gave a successful recital in New York, upon the result of which hinged the question of his return for a third year in the fall. All of the noted musical critics of the metropolis were at the recital.

"I guess it was a success," said Jonson simply today, when asked as to the result, "I'm going back."

Mr. Jonson was noncommittal as to his plans for the future, declaring that he had made none, except that he would like to go on the concert stage.

Vaudeville? Mercy! No! "The Lord will provide," he said, and then hastened to add: "Not that I am one of those who believe in faith without works, only I have not yet formed my plans for the future. I don't believe in looking too far ahead."

Mr. Jonson denied indignantly the suggestion that he might go on the vaudeville stage. "That is a last resort," he declared. "I do not care very much if I never get any farther along in the work than I am at present," he said, "I like the work for itself, not for the profit and fame there is in it. I have been amply repaid for all the time and effort I have spent."

Practices Five Hours
In answer to another question, Mr. Jonson stated that he had been in the habit, in New York, of spending only about five hours at the piano daily, owing to the pressure of his other studies. "I have a great deal more time to spend on it in summer, though," he declared, "and I really could not say just how much time I do take each day. But it isn't work. Playing the piano is fun."

Mr. Jonson is visiting for a few days at the home of Miss Julia Hoffman, 922 State street, his first music teacher. He will leave tomorrow for his home in Centerville.

ATHLETES LOSE FIRST OF SERIES

In a close and exciting game the La Crosse Clothing company won the first game of the series for city honors at League Park yesterday afternoon. The two star pitchers of the respective clubs opposed each other with honors about equal. The Athletics got their first run in the third inning when Kirchels reached first on a base on balls, went to second on Mueller's hit to center, both runners advanced a base on Meinert's out. Walters then barked allowing Kirchels to score. The Athletics tied the score in this inning, Lovold opening with a two base drive to left, went to third on Walters' hit and scored on Weigert's sacrifice fly to left. After two were gone in the sixth inning the Athletics scored when Evenson came across the plate on 'Childers' hit to right. The Clothing company came back in the eighth inning. Weigert reached first on a base on balls, Nietler hit safely and Pederson's two base hit scored "Wiggy." Pederson advanced a base and scored on Davis' sacrifice fly to left field.

The second game of the series will be played next Sunday.

WOMAN MYSTIFIES CHIEF OF POLICE

MAJESTIC BILL IS SPLENDID

Mercedes Gives Wonderful Exhibition of Power Before Committee Today

Chief of Police John Weber, members of the police force, a committee of newspaper men and others were completely mystified this morning when Mercedes, la pianiste de mysteries, who opened at the Majestic theater Sunday, demonstrated her wonderful ability in mental telepathy.

From the Majestic theater office, where she was closeted with two newspaper men, she told Chief Weber, over the telephone, the number of articles on the wall of the police station, described badges, lodge emblems, told the amount of checks, what they were for and even called the name of one newspaper man who formed the committee in the chief's office.

Miss Mercedes chatted with the newspaper representatives while the committee was on the way to the police station. The telephone rang. She answered it.

"This is the chief of police," came over the wire. "How many people are there in this office?"

Mercedes closed her eyes, pressed her hand to her head and then answered: "I count five." "That man is holding a watch key in his left hand," she replied to a query. "Yes, he is wearing an Elk's emblem. He has a diamond ring on the third finger of his left hand, he has a pen in his right hand and is wearing a two button coat. One of the buttons is buttoned. His name is C. A. Worth."

"You are now holding a check," she told the chief of police. "It's for $180 and is bail for a man named Max." Miss Mercedes' explanation was correct, the check was for $180 and was bail for a man under arrest here. "The check comes from a man named Burns," she further explained.

The wonderful woman then went on to describe articles on the wall of the police station, nearly three blocks away, calling the names and describing minutely the articles. She told Weber how many pictures there were on the walls.

Then the chief held an Elks' convention badge.

"It is purple," she said, "and has the number 300 on the top."

When the telephone test was completed Chief of Police Weber, the newspaper men and others adjourned to the Elks' club, where Mercedes demonstrated her ability further. The party was seated in the grill room. She took a seat at a piano in the lounge room.

As a member of the party concentrated their minds on various pieces Miss Mercedes would play them on the piano and throughout the entire test made no mistake.

"I claim to do nothing supernatural," she explained. "It is merely mental telepathy and is the result of long and careful study of the subject."

She explained that she did not attempt to read the future. "That is impossible. It's supernatural and I don't believe anyone can do that legitimately," she maintained.

Miss Mercedes was born in Springfield, Ill., and is the daughter of the first postmaster there. Her father is John Mayo Crane, night editor of the Chicago Tribune. In youth she discovered her ability to read people's thoughts, if they concentrated their minds on the subject, and later went into deep and careful study of the subject.

"If the person who is making the test with me hasn't the power to concentrate their minds it is useless for me to attempt to read their thoughts—in fact it is impossible," she said.

Entire Bill Fine
The rest of the bill at the Majestic made a marked hit at the opening yesterday as was demonstrated by the enthusiastic applause that greeted every act.

"Two Looney Kids" are Lewis and Chapin and according to press notices in other cities along the circuit they have been "cleaning up" fine all over the route. Their act is a clever and clean singing and talking combination that is bound to make a hit and the management guarantees that they will please the most fastidious.

Cycling Baisden presents a sensational cycling novelty hard to duplicate and comes to the Majestic highly recommended.

Gardner and Rever present a true variety act that is guaranteed a winner. From La Crosse this team will go to Eau Claire and Waterloo, other Majestic houses, and will then return for a long run in the Windy city.

Johnson's dogs are the acme of canine dexterity and the act introduces many new and novel tricks never before presented in a dog act here.

The motiograph will present comedy and tragedy and this feature of the bill is in itself a real show.

Of course it is better to have loved and lost—if you have enough of his letters saved for a good breach of promise case.

There is something funny about the man who sets up a fight against the infinite, knowing he is to get a knockout blow in the final round.

THE FIRST AUTOMOBILE FUNERAL IN AMERICA

CINCINNATI, O.—The automobile funeral is here. The first one was held in Cincinnati the other day and because it was the first one, it was given to a poor laborer who never rode in an automobile before and he went to his grave in more style than any millionaire ever did.

The above picture shows the automobile funeral. The hearse is a 50 horse power silent limousine auto type and the coffin slides in on a level with the draped windows. The spacious interior below the coffin is for carrying floral remembrances. That the automobile funeral will soon be a common affair may be gleaned from the fact that undertakers are getting together to fix a price on such a funeral. They say they will be able to handle twice as many funerals as the autos go twice as fast and lose no time coming back.

Marvelous MacGillicuddy

It isn't a bit too much to insist that Connie Mack never went into a game he didn't expect to win. This is what the gamblers call a percentage before the draw. It is an ace down and a few other things. In a plain manner of speaking, you may call it confidence and let it go at that. Whatever it is, Connie Mack has it, and the result is that the team he steers is the team to set your course by, because it's apt to be making the pace a big bit of the journey. Look at the record of the Philadelphia Athletics and make your little bow to the man at the helm, the Hon. MacGillicuddy.

Ever so many years ago, there was a man child addition to the MacGillicuddy tribe. They named him as Cornelius, but he soon outgrew those long words, and allowed that Connie Mack would do very well as an abbreviated designation. The gentleman never was much for the wasting of words, or other valuables. He figured that the shortest distance between two points was a straight line, and that was the route he set out to follow. When he was a wee New England youngster, he fancied himself as a catcher, so he bent his energies to getting others to fancy him in that position. He interested the management of the Meriden, Conn. team, a little less than thirty years ago, and Meriden will tell you today, if you will or will not stop to listen, that Connie Mack was a he-phenomen even in those days.

That's as may be. At all events, Mack was an earnest, believing, strong stripling, who couldn't understand how it was possible for a man who wanted to go forward to have to go back. So he never went back. He went forward instead, and if you'll ask anybody in Hartford, Washington, Buffalo, Pittsburg, Milwaukee or Philadelphia, they'll be glad to add their endorsement to the Mack Methods and call to mind certain stirring chapters in the thrilling MacGillicuddy book of life.

All Connie Mack's activities prior to his advent in Philadelphia had been preparatory for the big opportunity which was waiting to be embraced on the banks of the Schuylkill. Connie indulged in an embrace that was almost indecent. When he had finished, he had Miss Philadelphia feeling the same way, and ever since those early days of the struggle, the town has been his'n. Connie broke into Philadelphia near the start of the organization of the American league, and at the beginning of his second season he was feeling his Quaker oats. He planted the seed of his native enthusiasm in the fertile soil of the Athletics, and when the baseball year was over, Philly was there with a mark of 610, and that was good enough to win with.

On two other occasions in the comparatively brief existence of the younger league, Connie Mack had led his men to league victory, and there is perhaps a man and man here and there who remembers the way the 1910 season had its windup. Credit Connie with the three wins. He spreads his optimism and cheer over all the players, and they do things they wouldn't have thought possible had they worked without the kindly spur. "We can do it," says Mr. Mack, ever in the tone of finality. It's a happy cry.

Tomorrow—Elmer Stricklett, master of the moist.

GEIDEL'S DEFENSE ACCUSES DEAD MAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—When the defense in the trial of Paul Geidel, the 17 year old bellboy charged with the murder of Wm. H. Jackson, opened today, James A. Gray, attorney for Geidel, alleged that Jackson was not murdered but died from a hemorrhage of the lungs. He denied that Geidel entered the room through the bathroom window, but said he was in the room by appointment with Jackson, who had furnished him with a key. He also attacked the character of the dead man, but admitted Geidel had robbed him.

WILL SETTLE LAKE PEPIN LINE FIRST

The committees appointed by the Minnesota and Wisconsin legislatures to confer regarding the boundary line between the two states, will take up the discussion of the Lake Pepin line first. The committees are now in session, the first meeting being held at Red Wing, Minn. This line is one much disputed and is one of the hardest to settle, owing to the disputes by the fishermen and game wardens' forces of the two states.

The Wisconsin fishermen have claimed the boundary line runs in the middle of the channel and this is on the Minnesota side. The Minnesota fishermen, on the other hand, maintain that the boundary line runs down the middle of the lake. In this they have been supported by the game wardens' department of Minnesota. This has led to interminable disputes.

Senator W. C. Owen, of Madison, is chairman of the Wisconsin committee.

The other portion of the line in dispute is at Superior, where the St. Louis river line has to be settled. This, however, can be easily disposed of, once the Lake Pepin dispute is out of the way.

SINCLAIR TO SETTLE GRIEVANCE IN RING

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Sporting promoters are looking today for Harry Kemp, "the tramp poet of Kansas," and Upton Sinclair, socialist editors, and if they can catch them to settle their argument with the gloves, they will be able to bill the best card from the box office point of view seen here in some time.

Upton and Harry were the bona fide Damon and Pythias team at Arden up to the time "Uppy" went to jail for playing golf on Sunday.

But there came a rift in the lute. Sinclair said that the Kansan influenced Mrs. Sinclair to seek a stage career. Sinclair went into seclusion.

Today Kemp is "looking for" Sinclair and says he will "punch his head," while Sinclair says he will accommodate his former friend. Each, however, is following his own trail which is widely separated from the other.

ELK'S OUTING A MONSTER SUCCESS

Viroqua Members Entertain La Crosse Herd in Royal Style All Day Sunday

BASEBALL GAMES FEATURES

Ladies and Gentlemen Participate; Taken to Maple Dale in Several Automobiles

Members of La Crosse Lodge of Elks and their families were royally entertained by Brother and Mrs. W. D. Dyson and brother Elks of Viroqua yesterday. The day was ideal. The party was headed by Exalted Ruler W. H. Hurlen and Secretary W. W. Wigenhorn, accompanied by a goodly herd of congenial and care-free Elks and their loved ones. The trip was over the scenic South-eastern Railway to the thriving and attractive city of Viroqua.

At the depot the visitors were met by the host, Brother Dyson, who had a sufficient number of automobiles in waiting to transport them to his summer home. Over a winding road, past large fields of exceptional crops of tobacco and orchards whose every tree was heavily laden with fruit, the party was autoed two and a half miles into Paradise Coulee and to the choice spot selected by the Dysons for their summer home, named Maple Dale. Amidst the inspiring strains from a selection rendered by the Third Regiment band, the visitors were heartily welcomed and received by Mr. and Mrs. Dyson, Mrs. Dyson's father, Mr. Eckhart, and Col. and Mrs. O. G. Munson, and other Viroqua Elks.

An Ideal Summer Home

A general survey found the La Crosse Elks transplanted to a spot which it would be a strain on the imagination to conceive of a more delightful and ideal one. Maple Dale consists of two cozy cottages nestling at the foot of a verdant covered hillside. On these spacious grounds are to be found a unique garage and all other modern conveniences. A picturesque lake formed by the overflow of the many springs adds to the charms. Beautiful floral designs are studded over the wellkept lawn, while rustic and artistically designed settees and lounging places are stationed about the grounds. The rustic bird's nest built under a magnificent specimen of the forest is a feature that appeals to one who enjoys a book, a cigar or to watch the passersby on the country road. A trout stream in front of the premises, a grazing field for a herd of cattle and sheep, all give it an environment where happy youth loves to wander and revel in bright dreams of the future and hopes that the pathway may always be as smooth and velvety.

The Fountain of Youth

It was with no little pride that the host led his guests to his famous Ponce de Leon spring which pours forth from the rocky side of the bluff a crystal pure and healthful water which has no equal anywhere around. This fountain of youth was besieged all day by the Elks who were anxious to be rejuvenated and by the fair ones who wanted to retain their charms.

Milwaukee Man Present

After an inspection of Maple Dale and a practice game of baseball, a sumptuous luncheon brought by the individual parties and spread upon improvised tables was indulged in. The way the eatables were cleaned off the tables spoke volumes for the appetizing manner in which everything was made and served. Col. Munson and his assistants winning the affections of everyone by the dexterity with which they waited upon the guests.

Following the luncheon Exalted Ruler Hurlen introduced Judge John C. Karel, exalted ruler of the Milwaukee Lodge No. 48, and called on him for a few impromptu remarks. The judge was in good spirits and delivered himself of a happy speech, during the course of which he brought a message of good cheer from Elksdom at large, thanked in behalf of the visitors the host and hostess profusely for their royal entertainment and spoke of the inspiring surroundings. He congratulated La Crosse lodge upon the enviable reputation it now enjoys as a progressive and ideal lodge, wishing them unbounded success for the future, showered encomiums on Delegate L. B. Raymond who attended the last Grand Lodge meet at Atlantic City, bespoke for Elksdom a higher standard of character and citizenship of its membership and concluded with a short but beautiful peroration on "Honor Among Elks."

Ball Game Ends in Tie

After luncheon a well defined program of recreation and amusement was arranged, the first number being a baseball exhibition between the La Crosse "Butterfingers" and the Viroqua "Windjammers." After an indefinite period of play the game resulted in a tie due to the generosity of the umpires, Hosely and Minshall. Features of the game were the sliding to first base by City Attorney Proctor, the terrific batting and speed in base running by Dr. Gatterdam, the playing all over the field at the same time by George Rose, the corker twirling of Weinhaupt, the "stick-to-me" catching on first by District Attorney Bennett and the rooting of Judge Karel. The umpiring was never questioned (?) but both officials came near being ducked in the lake close at hand for their display of ignorance of the na-

GALESVILLE FAIR TO BE CROWD DRAWER

As it is expected that a large delegation from La Crosse will attend the fair at Galesville Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 29, 30 and 31, arrangements have been completed whereby residents of this city can remain at the fair all day and then get a train back here in the evening. This fact will undoubtedly assure a large attendance from here, for the fair is one of the best in this part of the state, and if one can remain there all day and return in the evening, many will attend.

This is the official county fair and is the fifty-third of the county agricultural society. An excellent race program has been arranged and a total of $950 has been raised for purses. Among the events on the track, which will be of interest, are the farmers' race and the 2:17 pace or the 2:14 trot on Wednesday, and the 2:20 trot and the free-for-all pace on Thursday.

From Michigan he will go to Illinois and Missouri, then an eleven day circuit to Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and back to Missouri. Denver, Col., will come next and then will follow Wyoming, Utah and the Pacific coast. The president will spend a number of days in California, probably going as far south as San Diego. In San Francisco he will break ground for the great exposition to be held there. He will go north into Washington and back along the border, skipping only North Dakota enroute. Two days will be spent in La Follette's stronghold, Wisconsin. Then he goes to Chicago and into Ohio. The president will reach the White house on October 31, the last speech of the tour being made the night previous in Pittsburgh.

tional game and partiality to the wishes of the ladies.

The second feature was a baseball game participated in by the fair sex. Such an entertainment is rare, for here was an exhibition of hobble skirts in action, of curls mixing up with the ball, of French heels becoming imbedded in the lawn preventing base running, of feminine intrigue to frustrate the batter and kill the base runner, of graceful baserunning and delicate batting. At the end of a four inning contest the score stood 97 to 102 in favor of the "Appleblossoms."

A musical program was rendered from the veranda of one of the cottages, Miss Lillian Burgess, of Chicago, winning her audience with the sweet ditties so charmingly sung. The Elks "Barnyard Quartette," composed of Weinhaupt, Wigenhorn, Hegge and Burgess, made the occasion a most cheerful one. A few songs by the entire party ended the day's outing, all effervescent with expressions of delight over the exceedingly happy day spent with Brother Dyson and Elks of our sister city.

The feature of the dinner was a monumental cake crowned with white icing, which was supplied by Mrs. O. A. Klanrud, 1016 Division street. Across the top of the cake the initials of the Elks were worked in purple colored icing. The local entertainment committee is to be commended for the completeness of the arrangements and the manner in which they handled the outing.

BONDIES HOME FOR LAST SERIES

Rochester Surgeons Will Play Three Games Here; Outcasts Finish at Winona

FANS PULLING FOR KIDDOS

Minnny Baseball Bugs Are Down on Winona Club; Killian Takes Unfair Advantages

The Outcasts are home for their last series of the season, on the home grounds, and will play the Rochester Surgeons today, tomorrow and Wednesday, after which they will go to Eau Claire for three games and from there to Winona where they will play Sunday and bring the season to a close by a double header on Labor Day.

Although the season does not end today, the race is practically settled and in all probability the clubs will remain in the same positions they are in at present and there is little doubt but that Superior will take the pennant. This is perfectly satisfactory to the fans of every city on the circuit with the exception of Winona and all are pulling for the lake club.

Winona has lost the sympathy of every fan outside of that city due to several reasons. In the first place Winona carries more men than were allowed according to the league rules. In the second place, the general belief, despite the assertions of Manager Killian to the contrary, is that Winona was in excess of the salary limit during the early part of the season. Third, Winona protested that Eau Claire game which they lost 18 to 2 on the grounds that Harrington, formerly an A. A. twirler, was procured by the Champs within thirty days of the close of the season. Harrington's twirling was not the cause of Winona's defeat as can plainly be seen from the score and furthermore, as Eau Claire had no chance to win the pennant at that late date in the season, they did not procure Harrington in order to take an unfair advantage of any other club.

The rule in regard to signing higher class players was made to prevent a close second team from overcoming the leaders in the last stage of the fight by procuring high class men for a short period, and as this was not the case with Eau Claire the grounds for the protest were a mere technical excuse. Another unfair means which the Winona management tried to obtain was the transferring of the Winona-Rochester series to Winona. On top of this Manager Killian lost his temper and hit a twelve year old lad over the head with a bat because he was rooting a little too strenuously, according to dispatches from Duluth, and it is claimed that Winona played Mike Malloy without a contract.

The Superior club on the other hand has been making an uphill fight for the pennant all season and has been putting up clean exhibitions. They have abided by the umpire's rulings in all cases and have been "on the square."

Semi-Indirect Lighting.

A well known company that specializes in lighting fixtures is at present experimenting on what may be called a semi-indirect lighting system. In this, instead of throwing all of the light to the ceiling, from which it may be diffused and reflected, a portion only of the light will be so directed, while the rest of it will be allowed to pass downward or outward through the inside reflector and the outer glass casing. Various physiological and psychological tests are being made to determine the proper ratio between the indirect and the direct lighting.—Shop Notes Quarterly.

STEEL STOCK IS FULL OF MOISTURE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The amount of "water" in the stock of corporations engaged in the manufacture of iron and steel was indicated in a special report of the census bureau on that industry published here today. It shows that the amount of capitalization per employee in blast furnaces, steel works, roller mills, wire and tin plate factories was $4,700 in 1909 as against $2,400 in 1899.

In steel and rolling mills there was a gain of only one establishment in ten years, but the capital represented in 1899 jumped from $430,000,000 to $1,004,000,000 in 1909. Capital employed in the wire industry increased from $2,240,000 in 1890 to $60,000,000 in 1909.

Services were held at the house, 321 South Twenty-second street, at 1 o'clock, and at the West Avenue Norwegian Lutheran church at 1:30. Rev. Marvik of Houston preaching the sermon. A large number of friends followed the body to Oak Grove cemetery, where interment was made.

MEXICANS CONVENE TO NAME MADERO

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 28.—Delegates from fifteen hundred clubs and organizations met today in the national convention of the progressive party to formally nominate Francisco I. Madero for the presidency. Early today no name but Madero's was mentioned and the real fight is between the four aspirants for the vice presidency. Maderistas claim their leader's greatest strength lies in the country. The three leading candidates for the vice presidency are Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez, Jose Pyto Suarez, and Iglesias Calderon.

COURT REPORTERS CONVENE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Universal legislation requiring state certificates for court reporters was urged at the opening session of the national shorthand reporters association here today. Delegates argued that an unskilled court reporter may cause an innocent person to be sent to prison by making errors in the testimony. President Willis N. Tiffany of Los Angeles, called the convention to order.

Adroit.

There was a man who used to tell a fine story about a cannon. But, like all story-tellers who play fair, he believed in waiting for something to turn up in the conversation which should give him a chance to spring his yarn.

Unfortunately, most of the conversations in which he became involved were pervasively cruel to him. Nothing was said in them for several successive weeks. And this is what he used to do, in his desperation, to get around the difficulty:

"Boom—Boom!—Boom!!!" roared the cannon at Gettysburg. And, by the way, speaking of cannon—"Whereupon out came the story."

Flight of Seeds.

It is popularly believed that winged seeds from trees travel to great distances on the wind, but the investigations of a British scientist who has spent much time at Singapore, indicate that winged seeds have a far narrower range of flight than have "powder" seeds and plumed seeds. The greatest distance travelled by the winged seeds of a forest tree observed by this authority was 100 yards. Under the most favorable circumstances, he calculates. It would take this plant just 100 years to spread 500 yards and 1,500,000 years to spread from the Malay Peninsula to the Philippines if a land connection existed.—Scientific American.

CONSOLIDATIONS MADE LIGHT CO.

Bought Out Others to Stop Destructive Competition, Is Charge of Attorney Winter

BRIEFS FILED AT MADISON

Company's and People's Attorneys Hand In Arguments on Raise in the Electric Rates

Maintaining the La Crosse Gas & Electric company's petition for the authority to raise its rates is due to repeated duplication caused by numerous consolidations to eliminate destructive competition, Attorney Frank Winter, appearing for the public, has mailed his brief in the matter to the railroad commission of Wisconsin.

The company's brief was filed some time ago and in it they maintain that but little new evidence was brought out at the second hearing conducted by the commission in La Crosse.

The company criticizes M. H. Colibohm, the electrical engineer who was retained by the attorneys for the city of La Crosse and various civic organizations. In their brief to the commission they maintain "that it seems apparent that instead of taking the three departments of the business and analyzing them thoroughly, he centered his efforts on a few individual items in the valuation by the commission and some phases of the electrical operation in order to support Mr. Winter in his efforts to maintain lower electric rates."

Mr. Winter does some "explaining" in his brief. "The plant at La Crosse," Mr. Winter says in the official document, "is the result of repeated consolidations following destructive competition. The result has been the acquisition of a lot of machinery, partially duplication, such as no company beginning service would buy or use, real estate scattered and disadvantageously located, and of more value than necessary, and great over capitalization."

Must Pay Dividends

"The company naturally desires to pay dividends on its capital and outlay. The result has been more or less of friction between the company and its patrons, a friction constantly growing less under commission control, until this attempt to raise rates."

After reviewing the workings of the company and the operation of its scattered plants Winter maintains that "in every competitive business the losses of bad management and unfortunate conditions fall on the investors or managers responsible for such conditions, and are not and cannot be by any regression put on the public. We should not now be made to pay for the mistakes and mismanagement of the past by putting into its valuation the original cost of a lot of equipment no one would under ordinary conditions buy or use."

Large deductions should be made from the new valuation to arrive at a valuation equitable to the company and the public, for the purpose of fixing earnings, maintains Winter.

Increase Unfair

"An increase in rates of either product," says Mr. Winter in closing, "would be regarded by the community here as unjust, especially in view of the fact that the company voluntarily reduced the rate of gas $1.00, and voluntarily suggested and accepted the present maximum rate of electricity in its franchise from the city."

He also draws attention to the fact that the present rates were fixed by the commission on the application of the company, and were suggested by the company.

WOMAN OF SORROW REVEALS MOTIVE

Beattie's Lawyers Fight Frantically to Keep Murdered Woman's Mother From Stand

PRISONER GROWS LIVELY

Sad Little Woman Tells Revolting Tale of the Unhappiness of Her Daughter

CHESTERFIELD COURTHOUSE, Va., Aug. 28.—A black clad mother, grieving for her dead daughter, took the center of the stage today in the grim trial of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., on charge of murdering his wife. She was Mrs. R. V. Owen, brought on by the prosecution to prove the gruesome revolting motive they have assigned for the crime.

Like a black palled ghost she was led into the court room from a curtained automobile as a mysterious surprise. Judge, jury and spectators leaned forward as the figure of sorrow made its way to the witness stand. Even stoical Beattie started from his calm, gasped and clenched his hands before him until the nails bit deep into the flesh and the prison pallor of his face blanched to a clearer white. He turned to his lawyers with an expression of panic on his face. And the lawyers were taken off their feet. The mother of sorrow had entered the court room where a moment before Detective Scherer had related a story of blood and horror like a nightmare. Unprepared for the significant testimony which the questions of Prosecutor Wendenburg drew from the soft voiced mother, Beattie's counsel sound delay.

Objections and arguments on every conceivable point failed to stop the answers of the quiet figure of sadness until she had introduced the possible trend of her knowledge that her daughter, newly a mother, had discovered that her husband, the prisoner, had contracted a vile disease in his debaucheries.

LABOR LEADERS HOPE TO PREVENT STRIKE

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—While J. W. Kline, president of the international brotherhood of blacksmiths, was hurrying from Chicago to Cheyenne, Wyo., to confer with the other international presidents of shop craft employees on the Harriman lines, preparatory to a conference on the coast with Julius Kruttschnitt, vice president of the Southern Pacific, labor leaders still were hopeful today that a strike might be averted. "There will surely be no strike of the system, federation of the Harriman lines," said a prominent labor official, "until after that conference with Mr. Kruttschnitt in San Francisco. There we hope the statements to Mr. Kruttschnitt over all the international presidents will show the railroad officials the strength of the system federation idea and will force them to grant our demands which we do not consider excessive."

It is added, however, that unless Kruttschnitt does agree to this in the San Francisco meeting there will be no further parleying.

Salt.

Salt production is about the oldest industry in the world. In Italy, the cradle of the salt industry, it has been manufactured commercially for 2,500 years. Salt is so necessary to existence that in some parts of the world tribes will sell the members of their families in exchange for salt. Salt has been the cause of wars, and so important has it always been considered that in some places the passing of salt is established as a token of friendship, and women throw salt on a visitor as a friendly greeting. In some countries salt is so scarce that it is obtained through the ashes of grasses and a species of palm and other plants. While salt is produced in almost every country in the world, it is stated that nowhere can salt of such purity be obtained at anything like the cost of mining as in Louisiana.—Manufacturer's Record.

Grain Letter

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—The wheat market was active at the opening today and prices advanced. There were several reasons for excitement; new frost reports from Canada and news of low temperatures over a large portion of the wheat country and the conclusion that the crop must be hard hit. Foreign markets were higher. After the first show of strength a reaction came about and noon prices were back to the level of the figures of the previous close.
The corn market was strong today and opened higher. Noon prices were yet higher. The weather map shows rains and lower temperatures, conditions not altogether favorable for a growing crop.
Trade in oats was more active today than it has been for some time. The market opened higher and by noon had advanced more. Receipts of oats are reported to be falling off. There was considerable profit taking on the advance through commission houses.
Provisions were quiet. There was a fair demand for lard and prices were firmer.
Wheat—Sept. closed unchanged; Dec. down 1/4. Corn—Sept. up 1/4; Dec. up 1/4. Oats—Sept. and Dec. up 1/4. Provisions slightly higher.

NORWAY COPIES SCHOOL SYSTEM

This Is Declaration of Atty.
Olaf Skaar, Back to La
Crosse After Extended
Visit There

That the school system of Norway is modeled after that of the United States, and that the government of the land of the midnight sun is striving to make the schools as much like those of the new world as possible is the statement made today to a representative of The Tribune by Olaf R. Skaar, who returned Friday to La Crosse with his family, after a nine months' stay in Norway.

Mr. Skaar and his wife left for Norway to bring home to La Crosse their three daughters, Martha, Ragnhild and Gunner, who have spent a year in a school in Christiania. Mr. Skaar made a close study of the Norwegian schools, and he is convinced that they are second only to those of this country in efficiency. He declares that young and able educators are sent every year from Norway by the government to America, to study our school system, and that the best of methods in use in the United States are thus brought over and put in use in Norway.

As an example of the efficiency of the Norwegian schools, Mr. Skaar states that at the last census of Norway, taken last year, not a single case of illiteracy was found in the country, every man, woman and child, with the exception of those too young and the feeble-minded, being able to read and write.

Mr. Skaar, however, declares that in spite of the many beauties of his native land, he is glad to get back to La Crosse. He declares also that in the last five years the land of the midnight sun has become a mecca for traveling Americans, and that every part of Norway which he visited in a tour of three months' duration was full of Americans. Mr. Skaar and his family, while abroad, visited Sweden and Denmark, as well as Norway.

ADVICE PREPARED FOR DOG FANCIERS

Kennel Club Officers Make up List of "Tips" on Preparation of Entrants

SHOW TO BE BIG SUCCESS

Interest in Event is Intense
and Unusually Large Entry List is Expected

For the benefit of local dog fanciers and those who intend entering dogs in the coming kennel show, to be held during the interstate fair next month, the officers of the La Crosse Kennel club have prepared a list of instructions which should prove valuable to fanciers.

Prospects for the 1911 show are usually bright and it is expected the entry list will be double that of last year.

The instructions follow:
The success of a dog in the show ring is largely a matter of condition. Of course, to win, a dog must be a good specimen of his breed, but even so, a dog of only medium merit, if shown in good condition, generally will defeat a dog of much better type shown in poor condition.

Remember, your dog does not have to be a pedigreed animal to be entered at the show. He must be of a distinct breed and, as the judging is done by comparison, the best specimen in the various classes receives the prizes.

The success, year after year, of some exhibitors is not due so much to any marked superiority of their dogs as to the fact that the dogs in their hands are always shown in the pink of condition.

Judges are not supposed to consider what a dog looked like in the past or what he would be like if properly conditioned but, rather, what he actually looks like at the time the prizes are being awarded.

The amateur exhibitor, as he passes along the benches and observes the magnificent coats and condition of a string of dogs in the hands of some veteran handler, generally imagines that the veteran has some secret process or a combination of drugs by the use of which he fattens dogs, brings out their muscles like polished iron, brightens their eyes and adds a polish like a satin finish to their coats. He may disabuse his mind of all such nonsense. In the handler's methods, there are no secrets other than the simple fact that good condition is simply an evidence of good health and that good health is the result of good care.

The proper way to condition a dog is, first, to give him a kennel that is hygienic in the way of temperature, sunlight, ventilation and free from dampness, draught and vermin. Then, place him under a regime of food and rest, grooming and exercise as rigorous, rational and regular as that maintained by the successful athletes. The time required depends upon the breed and condition of the dog when you start in. Some dogs are easy to get into condition and keep there. Others are more difficult and must be very carefully watched and looked after. Short haired dogs of medium size are, as a rule, the easiest to get and keep in condition. Large dogs, such as St. Bernard, Mastiffs and Great Danes, require much more attention. Collies, on account of their coat, require a great deal of time and care; and, among the smaller breeds, the requirements of the Poodles, long haired terriers and toy spaniels will test the patience of the amateur.

Reference has been made to the importance of a good kennel that is free from vermin. One or two fleas will keep a dog busy scratching and digging out hair much faster than it can be grown in; and a flea-bitten dog is always thin and never thrifty. Another dog that can not be gotten fat or in anything like a good condition is one which is infested with worms. For this reason, most old handlers treat dogs for worms preparatory to the actual work of conditioning. After this, proper feed and exercise with careful grooming is relied upon to land him in the show ring in winning form. Mix flax seed meal with the dog's food for two or three weeks before the show; or, if eggs and milk are cheap enough, add these to his regular diet. His skin will become soft and elastic and the coat will grow rapidly and take on new life and luster. Two or three times a week, feed raw beef.

Give the dog a daily brushing with a stiff brush. This will remove the dead hair. Then rub him with a woolen cloth or the bare hand. This will bring out the natural polish of his coat.

More than one good bath a week is usually not necessary and do not use too much or too strong a soap, as this will have a tendency to remove the natural oil from his coat and thereby make it dry and harsh.

THROWS WOMAN TO DEATH IN WATER

Chicago Man Says He Murdered Her to Prevent Return to Life of Shame

HOLLAND, Mich., Aug. 28.—Threatening to take his own life at the first opportunity, Walter Hopper, aged 31, of Chicago, who was arrested last night on the steamer Puritan for the murder of Daisy Watt, alias Grace Lion of Grand Rapids, by throwing her overboard in midlake, was taken to the county jail at Grand Haven yesterday and is now under constant guard awaiting the arrival of the authorities who will take charge of the prisoner.

Realizing that to take his life by violence is impossible Hopper has determined to starve himself to death and has refused to take food or water since his arrest.

The tragedy enacted in midlake late Saturday afternoon has carried with it probably more unique features than any murder upon the government inland waters in many years. It is a story of a tragic end of a misspent life in the underworld of Chicago—a woman rescued from a Chinese dive on Halstead street and sent to a watery grave when she showed an inclination to return to her former life.

According to Hopper's confession he met the girl in Chicago three years ago. At that time she occupied fashionable apartments on State street. He fell in love with the woman but she would have nothing of him. For over a year she was lost to him and six months ago, when in a Chinese dive on Halstead street, he ran across his sweetheart of a year ago. She had taken up her life in the underworld.

"I persuaded her to leave the place," said Hopper, "and rented rooms on Taft street, where I supported her for five months. Last Sunday she disappeared from her home and I traced her to a dive on lower Halstead street, where I found her taking opium with the Chinamen. I took her to my home again and tried to have her straighten up. She refused and we quarreled, and Saturday she packed up her belongings and started for Grand Rapids, to visit a sister.

U. S. WARSHIP RUNS INTO WHARF PIER

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 28.—The torpedo destroyer Monaghan tore open her bow early Saturday morning and it is feared damaged her engines when she ran almost full speed into the torpedo station wharf. She struck at such speed that she ploughed through several planks near the end of the pier. Lieutenant Commander Cronan was in charge. It was unofficially said mistaken signals from the bridge was the cause. From land it appeared orders were given for engines to stop but the boat ripped alongside at an angle at about 19 knots an hour. So far as could be learned no one was injured.

SENATOR CLAPP FOR LA FOLLETTE

Says Wisconsin Man Is the Logical Candidate for Presidency; Will Lend
Active Aid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The attitude of the supporters of Senator La Follette for the presidential nomination was expressed by Senator Clapp of Minnesota on Saturday.

"I am for Senator La Follette. I have already announced my politics publicly," said Mr. Clapp. "I hope our delegates from Minnesota will be for his nomination to succeed President Taft. Senator La Follette was the pioneer in the progressive movement. He is the logical candidate. We have a strong progressive movement in Minnesota. Senator La Follette already has a good working organization. His friends are active. I believe their activity will produce results before the convention meets. It would not surprise me, and I need not say it would please me, to see him control Minnesota's delegation to the next convention."

That La Follette will control the Wisconsin delegation has never been questioned by politicians with the exception of Senator Stephenson. La Follette's colleague.

"I am for Mr. Taft's renomination," Mr. Stephenson said. "Does anybody doubt that he will be renominated?"

"What about Mr. La Follette?" the senator was asked.
"Does he think he can be nominated?" he replied. "Wisconsin may be for him; it may not. It is early. We will have to await developments. I will do all I can to renominate and re-elect Mr. Taft."

SHOOTS MOTHER IN PLAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—"Mama, I'm going to shoot you." With these words George Myers, aged 6, playfully raised a shotgun, and pointing it at his step-mother, Mrs. George Myers, who was lying in bed, pulled the trigger. The gun was loaded and Mrs. Myers was instantly killed, the charge tearing off the top of her head.

WIFE INDOLENT SO HE BEAT HER UP

"I didn't mark her up any," was the plea of William Kisar when endeavoring to obtain a light sentence on the charge of assault and battery against his wife.
Kisar became dissatisfied with the work of his wife, according to his tale, and upon finding her taking a nap a few days ago, when she alleges she was ill, he tried to correct her ways by physical force with the result that his wife will be relieved from cooking his meals for the next twenty days.
Kisar admitted that he had beaten his wife and Judge Brindley gave him the alternative of a $15 fine or twenty days in the county jail. He accepted the latter.

GRAY HAIR WILL MAKE YOU LOOK OLD

Use Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and
Your Gray Hair Will Quickly
Vanish

Gray hair is a mark of age, and nothing that can be said as to its beauty will effect the disadvantages of this mark of age set upon your brow.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy darkens the hair and restores it to its youthful beauty. Our grandmothers and their grandmothers before them used sage and sulphur for darkening their hair. Nothing has ever been found more effective for this purpose than these two time-honored remedies, but Wyeth, a modern chemist, has combined the two with other ingredients which makes a delightful dressing for the hair, and which not only removes every trace of dandruff but promotes the growth of the hair. It also stops the hair from falling out and makes it beautiful.
